

closed?

A Only after I get ready for bed.

Q You lock it then?

A Yes, sir.

Q Now, then, what <sup>is</sup>/the next thing that you remember that evening?

A Well, you mean after I went to bed?

Q Yes.

A I remember of course -- now, this is just superstition I am going to say; maybe you have heard of it that if you see a green sky it means it is going to be colder weather; you have heard of that, haven't you?

Q Yes.

A Well, there was a light green sky that night. I put my quilt on the bed so as I wouldn't have to get up and do it at night. But contrary to that --

Q I was going to say, it fooled you didn't it?

A Yes; it was too hot. Well, I tossed and I turned and I twisted and I turned, too lazy to get up and take that off. I don't blame you for laughing, gentlemen.

MR. STUDER: I have done the same thing many a time.

A And I tossed and I turned and at last I looked at my watch. The bed, see, is here, and the bureau is
